Cutler Hall Dedicated By President James as Shrine

WITH 500 musicians in massed band formation, the R.O.T.C. Unit, and thousands of students, citizens of Athens, and visitors before him, President Herman Gerlach James stood on the steps of Cutler Hall and in brief but well chosen words dedicated the venerable building as a shrine of higher education in the Northwest Territory and a museum for the antiquities of the university. The scene was inspiring and the occasion one of real significance.

The dedicatory exercises were a part of a program on April 11 that celebrated the Sesqui-Centennial of the Ordinance of 1787 and welcomed to Athens the band of "pioneers" which had made the long trek from Massachusetts to "the Ohio Country." The campus exercises were preceded by a parade, a band concert by 400 visiting musicians and the 100-piece Ohio band, and were followed by a "pioneer dinner" at Hotel Berry, another concert, this time by the Ohio University band, and the federal pageant, "Freedom on The March." The last two events were held at Ohio Stadium.

Estimates of the number of spectators who thronged the line of march for the parade ran as high as 35,000 persons. What can be stated with certainty is that it was the largest crowd ever gathered together in Athens.

Twenty-five floats, three ox teams and wagons, eight high school bands, the Ohio University band, the federal pioneers, and nearly a score of other marching or mounted units composed the parade.

With Thomas Ewing, of New York City, a grandson of Ohio's first graduate, and G. W. Hutchison, Zanesville, a great, great, grandson of Benjamin Corp, who drew the plans for Cutler Hall, among the listeners, President James stated that "Cutler Hall cannot be preserved unless we take definite steps and have it set aside as a separate shrine of education. We are not in a position to announce our plans or say what will be done; but as there is no more satisfactory occasion, by virtue of the authority invested in me as president of Ohio University, I take the first step in dedicating this grand old monument to the cause of higher education.

"The forefathers of the university were men whose vision had projected itself for 150 years into the future. Ohio University was a part of that vision, being conceived by the same men who conceived the principles of the Ordinance of 1787. We are their beneficiaries today. We are proud of Cutler Hall—proud that Ohio University has that building. This building may not stand forever, but the principles back of it will continue to live."

The abandonment of Cutler Hall for classroom purposes was long ago recommended by architects and engineers. It was not until after a recent examination, conducted by Dean William M. Young and a group of engineers, disclosed the real extent to which floors and stairways were sagging and masonry foundations crumbling that an order was given to "abandon ship." As a result, the psychology department, which occupied the second and third floors of the building, is now scattered to the four winds, classes meeting in five different buildings on the campus.

Funds are being sought with which to preserve the structure by means of steel girder reinforcements and to restore it to its original design. In the rehabilitation, the fine old fire places will again adorn many of the rooms, while the small-paned windows and the restoration of other architectural features will make marked changes in the building. The bell tower is one of the finest examples of early American architecture.

New Student Union Building May Become a Reality After Long Years in Dream Stage

WHETHER the dream of a new $250,000 Student Union Building will become a reality or remain only an architect's sketch (see below), will be determined at the ballot box on April 25 when Ohio University students vote "yes" or "no" on whether or not they are willing to be assessed a fee of $2.50 each semester, the money to be used for retiring bonds for building funds.

Student leaders and university administrators have realized the need for such a building for more than a score of years. It was not until recently, however, that plans for financing such an enterprise seemed feasible. Now, if 1500 students vote on the proposition, and a majority of them are favorable to it, the Board of Trustees of the University will be asked to approve a carefully considered and detailed plan for the financing and erection of the structure.

Prior to the voting on April 25 a convocation will be held in Alumni Memorial Auditorium at which student and faculty speakers will discuss all angles of the proposal. A "Committee of One Hundred" has been carrying on an educational campaign for several weeks, with a view to acquainting all students with the opportunities and advantages of the proposed Student Union.

The new building, if erected, will contain a large ball room, a banquet room, a lounge for men, a lounge for women, a large lounge to be shared by both men and women, a grill room, meeting rooms, a card and game room, publications offices, and social quarters for faculty men and faculty women. The banquet and ball rooms, being acoustically treated, may be used simultaneously by two groups for dancing, or they can be thrown together to accommodate large dances such as the Junior Prom.

The building will be erected on the site of the present Men's Union but will extend north to take in the home now occupied by the Women's Faculty Club and west to include the present home of the Men's Faculty Club. The new structure will be approximately five times the size of the Men's Union. It will be of Georgian architecture, red brick with limestone trim.

President James is favorable to the proposal, but agrees that it can only become a reality through student efforts. In commenting he said, "The Union is intended to meet a fundamental need of student life at Ohio University. The testimony on that point is so overwhelming, from the wide-spread experience of other state institutions, that there is little point in wasting time and energy discussing it.

"Equally clear, to my mind, is the obligation of the state to provide such a fundamental service for the students in its state university. But here again, long experience has demonstrated that this particular need is not one that state legislators appreciate . . . Only two possible ways remain, by gift or by borrowing . . . Since we are compelled to adopt the borrowing method to get a Student Union, a sound method is to spread the expense over a period of years as long as the effective life of the building so that succeeding generations of students will share in the expense as well as the enjoyment."

Bulletin: In the student poll, 1725 votes were cast in favor of the $2.50 fee, and 324 against.

Editorial Comment . . .

CLOSELY, it seems, upon the heels of last year's commencement there approaches another June season. Six weeks hence and another university year will close, and its accomplishments—or lack of them—will be material for the records. At the moment, however, we will spend no time in looking backward, for the race is not yet run and there are still many things to be done. Chief among them are final preparations for the annual commencement program to be held on June 4, 5, and 6.

Built about the 50-year class, the program of the alumni convocation, an event to be restored to the calendar this year, will include representatives from the 40-year, 25-year and 15-year classes.

Plans for the inauguration of an alumni ball, with the expectation that it will become an annual feature, are under consideration. Other additions to liven and improve the general program of reunion and entertainment events will be made this year if the association exchequer will permit the financing of them.

Members of the Classes of 1888, 1898, 1913, and 1923 are especially urged to set aside the first week-end in June for a return to the campus. All other alumni, and their friends, are just as cordially invited. Full details of the 1938 commencement program will be published in the May issue of THE OHIO ALUMNUS.

AT THE AGE of seventy, and rounding out fifty years of teaching service, thirty-four of them on the Ohio University campus, Lewis James Addicott, professor of civil engineering, has signified his intention to retire from the faculty at the close of the current school year.

One by one the "old-timers"—they'll never admit the implication, and, besides, the term is used with deepest respect and a regard closely akin to affection—are leaving our midst. For the inspiration of their lives and the opportunities for friendly, daily contact we are all grateful. We know of course that the breaches will be filled, but in immediate perspective the gaps look large and difficult to be stopped.

Professor Addicott organized the department of civil engineering in 1904. Since the department has always been relatively small, he has had an opportunity to become intimately acquainted with all of the men who have majored in it. "Addicott's boys" are scattered throughout the entire United States, but wherever they are, we'll warrant they'll learn with sincere regret, even though it gains for him greater personal freedom and an unrestricted employment of his time, that their friend, counselor, and teacher will soon be laying aside the slide-rule and the text-book.

So, Godspeed you, Old Timer. We'll miss you much and think of you often. To repeat the words of President James, "It is not given to many individuals to establish such a long record of faithful and efficient service . . . Nor is it given to many institutions to be the beneficiaries of such service."

AS EVIDENCE of their high regard for the men who developed two of the outstanding departments of what is now the College of Applied Science, the civil and electrical engineering alumni, through a local committee, are planning a reunion and dinner on June 5 in honor of Dean A. A. Atkinson, who retired last year, and Professor Addicott, who will complete his work this spring.

While Professor Atkinson, who was honored with the deanship of his college following its organization in 1936, did not establish the department of electrical engineering, he assumed charge of it early in its infancy. His forty-four years on the teaching staff, with the thirty-four years to the credit of Professor Addicott, make a total of 78 years given by these two gentlemen to the cause of higher education at Ohio University. They will receive a heart-warming demonstration of the friendship and loyalty of their former students on Sunday, June 5.

WHO CAN recall how the rooms in Cutler Hall and The Wings were laid out? How were the corridors decorated? Were the original fire places made of iron, wood, stone, or brick, and are there any old fire places extant which were copied from them for Athens homes? What room in Cutler Hall was used for Chapel, and what rooms were used by the Athenian and Philomathean Societies?

A description of the early appearance and floor plans of Cutler Hall is particularly desired. Alumni who attended the university a half century or more ago will doubtless be best able to provide the information. Information on any or all of the points mentioned should be communicated immediately to the Alumni Office.

On and About the Campus . . .

MR. E. CLYDE HOGUE, Cincinnati, a great-great-grandson of Rev. Manasse Cutler, was an interested visitor to the Ohio University campus on April 8. He was returning to his home from Marietta where he had witnessed the landing of the pioneer party which made the overland trip and river voyage from Ipswich, Mass. Another distinguished campus visitor a few days later was Thomas Ewing, well known patent attorney of New York City and a grandson of Ohio University's first graduate, of the same name.

THE OHIO University team won first place in the Fifth Army Corps Area in the National R.O.T.C. Rifle Competition. The individual high score was also won by the Ohio University team captain, James A. Foster, Youngstown sophomore. Competing in the Fifth Corps Area were twenty-one colleges and universities. Ohio State University placed fourth. With a score of 928 out of a possible 1,000 points, the Ohio team has an excellent chance of winning the national trophy given for the best score in the nine corps areas.

TWO orchestras, one white and one colored, will provide music for the Junior Prom on May 6. Dick Stabile and Roy Eldridge are the hand masters who will bring their musical aggregations to the campus. Dancing will be in progress from nine until two o'clock, with no time out for intermission.

NOVELTIES, noisemakers, oddities, games of skill, dancing, and scores of free attractions will be combined to make up the program of the Campus Carnival, a new feature of the 13th annual Mothers' Week-end, April 28-30. The Carnival will be held at Ohio Stadium. The Mothers' Week-end activities will open on Friday with the prose interpretation contest sponsored by Tau Kappa Alpha. In the evening there will be a modern dance recital, the Festival of Lanterns, a serenade by the men's glee club, and the announcement and installation of new officers of the Women's League, YWCA, Women's Athletic Association, and the Men's Union. On Saturday the Carnival will have full sway, while Sunday events will include special church services, the annual Mothers' Day tea at the home of Dean Voigt, and a violin recital.

BETTY ZANE MILLER, Athens, sophomore, is a lineal descendant of two American Revolutionary War generals who were vitally interested in the settlement of the Northwest

Betty Zane Miller

Territory, General Rufus Putnam and General Benjamin Tupper. She is the great, great, great, great granddaughter of Putnam, a co-founder of Ohio University. For the accompanying picture Miss Miller wore a gown of the early colonial period.

NINE new members, all undergraduates, were elected to membership in the Ohio University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on April 6. Those chosen were: Corrine Snyder, Lewisburg; Phyllis Neely, Steubenville; Lois Pond, Youngstown; Mary Bly, Cleveland; Everett Hayes, Chester; Joseph Gill, Athens; Jean Jones, Youngstown; and Phillip Wilkinson, Athens.

THE FIRST annual Shop Talk of the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools, and the Southeastern Ohio Play Day, sponsored by the women's physical education division, were held on the campus April 23. The journalism program, which was sponsored by the School of Journalism, attracted 150 high school students and their advisers. The Play Day brought girls from schools in 22 communities.

A RAIN AND WIND storm on April 18, which reached its peak in a violent gale lasting only a few minutes, blew down a huge black oak tree which stood in front of the Chubb Library and not far from the McGuffey Elms. The steel flag pole near the Alumni Gateway suffered the same fate as the oak tree.

OHIO BANKERS will be given an inside view of European banking practices at the fourth meeting of the Banking Forum to be held at Ohio University on April 28. Dr. Hans J. Dernberg, a member of the University faculty and an international banking expert, is slated to give his views on the present banking situation in this country and abroad. The forum, established by Ohio University's Commerce College in 1936, attracts bankers from three states.

THE ANNUAL "School for Job Seekers" was held March 22 under the sponsorship of the Committee on the Bureau of Appointments. The school is held each year for the benefit of seniors who will soon be applying for jobs, and it attempts to aid them in the methods of contacting employers.

MISS GENEVIEVE JAMES, daughter of President and Mrs. Herman G. James, is recuperating at her home on East Union Street from a six weeks' illness of pneumonia. Miss James' illness was marked by several critical stages and was a matter of campus-wide concern.

TWELVE OHIO UNIVERSITY students from the women's physical education department presented four dance numbers at the Midwest Physical Education Convention held in Chicago April 8-9.

AT THE 67th annual meeting of the Ohio College Association and Allied Societies held in Columbus this month, Dean T. C. McCracken, of the College of Education, was elected president of the Association of Ohio College Presidents and Deans.

Addicott To Retire from Faculty After Thirty-four Years' Service

On April 14, 1938, Prof. Lewis James Addicott, of the civil engineering department, addressed a communication to President James in which he announced his intention to retire from teaching service at the end of the current year. Among Prof. Addicott's statements were these:

"Today I arrived at the allotted span of three score years and ten; this fact forcibly reminds me that I have been a teacher for more than fifty years . . .

"I came to Ohio University thirty-four years ago on the invitation of the President to organize and head a new Department of Civil and Mining Engineering which the Board of Trustees had created at their last meeting. A little later the Mining part was dropped from the name and it became the Civil Engineering Department . . .

"I am greatly indebted to the Administrations, past and present, for the privilege that I have had of serving this university for so long a term. After leaving the active work of the University my interest and best wishes will continue, and I shall always be pleased to cooperate in any and every way."

In response to this communication, President James wrote:

"Your thirty-four years of service at Ohio University are something of which you may be justly proud.

"It is not given to many individuals to establish such a long record of faithful and efficient service. Congratulations! Nor is it given to many institutions to be the beneficiaries of such service.

"On behalf of Ohio University men, I thank you and wish for you many more years of pleasurable activity freed from the strenuous demands that have been made by your work in the University."

Professor Addicott was a member and clerk of the Athens City School Board for twelve years, a member of the Athens City Council for two years, and a member of the Session of the Athens Presbyterian Church for thirteen years. He is treasurer of the Ohio University Chimes Fund, a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Association of University Professors, and is listed in "Who's Who in Engineering."

The children of Professor Addicott, all graduates of Ohio University, are Harold B., '24, Mayville, N. D., Gertrude Louise, '30, Cincinnati, and Donald K., '32, Cleveland.

Washington Alumnus Is Author of Proposed Child Labor Amendment

Israel Moore Foster, whose picture appears on the cover page, received the A. B. degree from Ohio University in 1895. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by his alma mater in 1920.

As a student, he was president of the Athletic League of Ohio Colleges, (later dissolved); president of the Ohio State Oratorical Association; twice orator from the Philomathean Literary Society; business manager of the "College Current"; and manager of one of the baseball teams of his day.

As an alumnus, he was a trustee of Ohio University for sixteen years, resigning when elected auditor of the university; Prosecuting Attorney of Athens County for eight years, during which time juries returned but two acquittals; was Member of Congress for six years, where he was author of the Child Labor Constitutional Amendment, now pending for ratification; he has been a commissioner of the United States Court of Claims since 1925, during which time he has tried 650 cases in which plaintiffs sought judgments against the United States Government in a total in excess of $200,000,000.

Mr. Foster is a consistent supporter of Ohio University, frequently returns to Commencements and Homecoming football games, and is active in the Ohio University Alumni chapter of Washington, D. C.

The Foster family have been residents of Athens since 1804; his great, great grandmother, Sallie Foster, was a charter member, in 1809, of the Athens Presbyterian Church. He is a direct descendant of Lieutenant Ebenezer Foster, who fought at the Battle of Concord Bridge at the opening of the Revolutionary War.

Mr. Foster is a member of Phi Delta Theta, Phi Delta Phi (legal), and holds membership in the University Club, Cosmos Club, and the National Press Club of Washington, D. C.

Voice of Gene Trace on the Air Daily from the "Nation's Station"

Last month when the editor completed a final check-up of his material he found that he had room in the OHIO ALUMNUS for a picture of Gene Trace, '30x, WLW radio announcer whose cheery voice is easily recognized in the morning programs which each day emanate from the "Nation's Station," but had no space for a story concerning him. Here is the excised material.

"Beanie," as he was popularly known on the campus, has completed a full year at WLW in Cincinnati. He entered the broadcasting game at Zanesville, with WALR, in 1935. Early in the following spring he went to WMMN at Fairmont, W. Va. From there he went to Dallas, Texas, for several months before coming north to Cincinnati.

The genial announcer has been on the morning shift during his entire time at WLW, but he also frequently announces for evening shows. His regular schedule starts at 5:45 a. m. and ends at 11:45 a. m. He is the announcer for the Renfrow Valley Barn Dance, originating in the Music Hall in Cincinnati every Saturday night, and for many NBC programs, with dance bands from local hotels and night clubs.

Reunions To Feature Commencement

As this issue goes to press, letters are being mailed to all members of the Classes of 1898, 1913, and 1923 inviting them to return to the campus for the commencement reunions of the 50-year, 40-year, 25-year, and 15-year anniversary groups on June 4, 5, and 6. Special exercises in which the graduates of 50 years ago will be honored are being planned.

Other features of the commencement season will be a joint reunion of civil and electrical engineering grads in honor of Dean A. A. Atkinson and Prof. L. J. Addicott, and the acceptance and dedication of the 20½-inch reflecting telescope presented to Ohio University by Prof. A. H. Carpenter, of the Armour Institute of Technology, in memory of his father and father-in-law.

The baccalaureate and commencement addresses, respectively, will be given by Rev. Dr. Don D. Tullis, '98, Daytona Beach, Fla., and Dr. T. V. Smith, of the University of Chicago. The complete program of the June exercises will appear in the May ALUMNUS.

Alumni Chapters Hear Speakers from Campus At Their Annual Spring Dinner Meetings

MEMBERS of the Eastern Ohio alumni chapter to the number of more than 100 convened in the banquet hall of the Steubenville Masonic Temple for their 20th annual reunion dinner on April 1. Dr. Clyde E. Cooper, professor of geography and geology, was their campus guest and speaker. Miniature floats representing a homecoming parade featured the table decorations. Place cards were small replicas of lustily cheering coeds dressed in green and white.

Musical contributions to the program included two cornet solos, a vocal trio and the group singing of college songs. In addition there were two humorous readings.

Prof. Gubitz

The new officers elected were Mayme Beaven, president, Ethel Anderson, vice-president, Isabelle Turner, secretary, and Robert Hohmann, treasurer. The retiring officers are Andrew Fenske, president, Miss Beaven, vice-president, and Mrs. Dorothy Barthold Dean, secretary.

HARRY A YOUNG presided over the program of the Pittsburgh chapter at its spring meeting on April 2 at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel in Wilkinsburg. Forty-five members were present to hear Dr. H. T. Houf, professor of philosophy, in the principal speaking role, and to enjoy the other good things on the program.

Following an invocation by Dr. C. E. Skinner, Lee Sellers and Phil Taylor took charge of the singing of Ohio songs. At the conclusion of Dr. Houf's address there was a reading by Anne Kinsworthy, an accordion solo by an accomplished musician, and an informal talk by Mr. Sellers.

Leland Boord and Helen Widener were president and secretary, respectively, during the past year. Their successors for 1938-39 are Harry A. Young, president, Mrs. Ruth Gillilan Eakin, vice-president, and Mrs. Kathryn Benjamin Low, secretary-treasurer.

SOUTHERN Californians met, April 2, at the Rosslyn Hotel in Los Angeles at the call of President Fred S. Pickering and his co-worker, Samuel L. Welday. Being at so great a distance from Athens it was impossible to provide a campus speaker for the group. Instead, the transcribed voices of President James and Alumni Secretary Williams were used as substitutes for flesh and blood guests.

The California party was such a success that another meeting was planned for an early date when it was expected that Frank Crumit, radio and former stage luminary would be present.

ON APRIL 9 Ohio University alumni in the Chicago area joined with the alumni of other Ohio colleges and universities in an intercollegiate luncheon at the Sherman Hotel. President Karl L. Adams, of Northern Illinois State Teachers College, De Kalb, who is likewise president of the Chicago chapter, assisted by Mrs. Adams (Helen Baker), the secretary, were on hand to greet the Ohio U. grads and to present President James, of the university, who was a special guest for the occasion.

ALTHOUGH NOT meeting in regular session, approximately 100 members of the Portsmouth chapter attended a concert of sacred music presented by the Ohio University Choir at the Second Presbyterian Church in Portsmouth on the Wednesday prior to Easter. A section of the church was especially reserved for Ohio University graduates and their friends.

DUE TO AN illness which affected his throat, President James was forced to make a last minute change in his plans for visiting the Dayton chapter on April 22. As a capable substitute, Albert C. Gubitz, professor of economics, conveyed to the thirty-one Daytonians, who met at the First Lutheran Church, the greetings of the administration and carried to them the last word from the campus. So interesting was his review of current events that at the end of 25 minutes he was importuned to continue for an equal length of time. An Ohio University "Quiz Bee" provided considerable amusement and not a little education for those participating. Martha Cole, secretary, presided over the program in the unavoidable absence of Charles A. Tarzinski, chapter president.

ALTHOUGH showing the effects of his illness President James appeared before the Franklin County chapter at the Fort Hayes Hotel in Columbus at the annual dinner on April 23. In addition to the address given by Dr. James, there were informal responses by Coaches Peden, Grover, Trautwein, and by Alumni Secretary Williams. Mrs. James, Mrs. Peden, and Mrs. Trautwein were presented to the group. One hundred and eighteen alumni turned out to greet President James and his campus associates. A large measure of credit for the successful meeting goes to Chapter President Carlisle O. Dollings and his fellow workers, Harold E. Wise and Mrs. Earl Krieger (Harriet Sprague). Officers elected for the coming year were Mr. Wise, president; Earl A. Hickman, vice-president; and Mrs. Krieger, secretary-treasurer.

A NUMBER of alumni parties have been definitely scheduled for the near future, while others will be announced soon. The dates and speakers for some of these affairs are: April 29, Monongahela Valley (Fairmont, W. Va.), Prof. R. F. Beckert; April 29, Akron, Dean A. H. Armbruster; April 30, Detroit, Dean Armbruster; April 30, Mahoning Valley (Youngstown), Dr. W. F. Copeland; May 6, Lima, Mr. Carl Nessler; and May 7, Cincinnati, Prof. George Starr Lasher.

Intramural Sports Programs Reach Majority of Men and Women Students on Ohio Campus

By DANA P. KELLY

BIG BILL TRAUTWEIN is one of the busiest men on the campus this spring. Although Bill is widely recognized as one of the best line coaches in the midwest his work as director of intramural athletics has been unheralded. In addition to his work as assistant to Don Peden in coaching the Bobcat baseballers and gridders, "Dutch" also directs the activities of approximately one thousand men in intramural competition.

This job of directing intramural sports is no snap either, when you consider that Bill must arrange schedules, and provide facilities and officials, for some 755 contests in 10 different sports throughout the academic year. During the winter, Bill has very few evenings at his disposal as he must direct the evening basketball leagues.

And, Bill is doing a fine job, too. Athletic Director O. C. Bird states that "For the limited facilities we have, I believe our intramural program will compare favorably with that of any midwestern college or university. We are definitely hampered by the fact that we have so little space for competition in some of the minor sports, handball, badminton, squash, bowling, table tennis, and volleyball, but Trautwein has done fine work in giving us a well rounded program with such limited facilities at his disposal."

In any article dealing with athletic activities we should not fail to mention the extensive intramural program carried on by the women under the direction of Associate Professor Sarah Hatcher, head of the women's division of the department of physical welfare.

The girls' sports include swimming, fencing, tennis, bowling, badminton, riflery, hockey, basketball, and volleyball. Non-competitive activities are dancing, outing groups, and swimming clubs.

About 850 women are participating in these various intramural activities, and the women's division is also greatly handicapped by the lack of facilities. Practically all the indoor program is carried on in the small space afforded in the women's gym.

Coach Trautwein

Miss Hatcher has been ably assisted in her work by Leona Paltrowitz, a graduate student, and by other students and faculty members. Bill Trautwein has also been aided by Arthur H. (Jack) Rhoads, assistant director of intramural athletics.

Professor Bird has expressed the hope that the stadium may someday be provided with courts, alleys, and rooms for handball, squash, bowling, and table tennis. According to Professor Bird, it was originally planned when the stadium was constructed to build in these facilities under the east section. The addition of such facilities and recreation rooms would provide a recreational center for students and would also make the stadium useful throughout the year, rather than merely in the grid season. If such a center is provided it will be used for both men's and women's activities. It is only fair that it should be of some benefit to the women students who are helping to finance its building and maintenance through payment of fees, according to Professor Bird.

Perhaps an expansion of our facilities should also include a swimming pool. The present pool in the women's gym is too small even to begin to take care of the normal needs of Ohio University students, and both Miss Hatcher and Professor Bird have expressed the hope that a new pool be furnished in the near future.

Miss Hatcher

DON PEDEN, baseball mentor, is still hoping his nine will snap out of its prolonged hitting slump. Dorwin Peer is the only .300 hitter among the regulars at the present, although the Bobcats recently took over first place in the Buckeye race by a brilliant 4-1 win over a good Marshall nine.

The Bobcats have displayed little of their vaunted hitting strength, however, and have been carried through by some good pitching on the part of Burazio, Reis, Gander, and Frey.

In the Marshall game, Peden was somewhat cheered by the apparent return to hitting form of Jack Malokas, second sacker, who tripled and came home on an error to score the tying run for the Bobcats in an early frame.

On their spring trip the Pedenmen chalked up a win over Marysville College, two over South Carolina, and dropped two games to Georgia, and one to Lenoir-Rhyne. To date, in the Buckeye, the Bobcats have recorded wins over Dayton, Cincinnati, and Marshall, while dropping one to Miami. Michigan State also wrested a victory from the Pedenmen in the opening game of the home schedule.

It looks like another wide-open race in the Buckeye this season, with the Bobcats standing a good chance of gaining at least a deadlock for the title.

THE REAL surprise of the spring sports season, however, is Bill Herbert's track squad which recently opened its season with a rousing 84 to 47 win over a good Ohio Wesleyan squad. If the Bobcat cindermen are not handicapped by injuries, don't be surprised if the Herbertmen give Miami an awfully good run for the title in the Buckeye track meet to be held in Athens, May 27.

Here and There Among the Alumni

BRANDON T. "Butch" GROVER, '19, head basketball coach at Ohio University, was elected vice president of the National Basketball Coaches Association at a meeting in Chicago early this month. Based upon past practice and precedent, Coach Grover may expect to be elevated to the presidency of the national organization next year. Grover has been coach of the hardwood court game at Ohio University.

ALICE BLACK, '37, is engaged in secretarial work for the Scientific Diathermy Corporation, New York City, a firm which manufactures short-wave therapy equipment for treatment of arthritis and similar ailments. As a sideline activity she grades contest papers for the Gregg Publishing Company and is a staff writer for the Business Education World. The March issue of that periodical contains a page of reviews, prepared by Miss Black, of articles appearing in other magazines.

Black

D. MERRILL DAVIS, '33, a former instructor in Jackson High School and now a sales representative of the Lawrence Clay Co. of McArthur, has been reelected secretary of the Ohio Eisteddfod Association. As such, he will have a prominent part in the staging of the 17th annual Eisteddfod to be held in Jackson this fall.

Mrs. Howard Schlereth (MARY VIRGINIA HEWITT, '31x), of Manila, P. I., is visiting her parents in Columbus at the present time. She will be joined by her husband, an employe of the Standard-Vacuum Oil Co., early this summer and will return to Manila next fall. Until last June, she lived at Iloilo on the Island of Panay, where her young son, Howard Hewitt, was born about twenty months ago.

Of the students chosen for Phi Beta Kappa membership at Ohio University this spring, two are sons and one is a daughter of alumni. EVERETT R. HAYES, '38, is the son of EVERETT R. HAYES, '16, A. M. '32, superintendent of the Chester schools. PHYLLIS NEELY, '39, is a daughter of Mrs. GEORGIA H. NEELY, '17, 2-yr. Steubenville teacher. PHILLIP G. WILKINSON, '39, is a son of Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Wilkinson, the latter a member of the class of 1925. Dr. Wilkinson is a professor of romance languages at Ohio University.

Almost a dozen Ohio University alumni were members of the Marietta Northwest Territory Celebration Commission which planned and staged the nation's premier exercises in honor of the Sesqui-Centennial of the Northwest Territory and the opening up of the Northwest Territory. H. L. SULLIVAN, '19, Marietta school superintendent, was treasurer of the commission and chairman of the budget commission. SENATOR VERNER E. METCALI, '17x, was also a member of the budget commission. MEADE S. HEETER, '35, and G. F. FINCH, '24x, were members of the pageant committee. HARLEY E. CALVIN, '14, 2-yr., FRID B. GODDARD, '15, FRANCES HATCH, '22, HILMA TRUE, '25, 2-yr., and MINOMA BENSON, '21, 2-yr., were members, respectively, of the grounds, music, rehearsal, and talent committees of the pageant division. MARIAN BAESL, '36, located in Marietta, is secretary to the State Director of the Northwest Territory Celebration Commission.

DALE E. MANSPERGER, '30, an instructor in the high school at Rhtman, is the author of a new textbook, "Plastic Arts." He was assisted in writing the book by his brother-in-law, CARSON W. PEPPER, '25. Mrs. Mansperger was EDITH PEPPER, '29.

It may be a bit late to be reporting 1937 summer activities but there were some interesting vacation trips that ought to be in the record. For instance, CARRIE PEASE, '25, high school instructor at Oberlin, and LELA EVERS, '17, instructor in Cotley College, Nevada, Mo., with the latter's mother, spent a most enjoyable vacation in Mexico City. ELIZABETH INMAN, '21, critic teacher at Bowling Green State University, also visited Mexico, but, in addition, traveled up the West Coast to British Columbia. MARIAN McCLURE, '31, instructor in the high school at Charleston, Ill., with an Ohio State University friend, spent ten weeks in Europe "just wandering about wherever we pleased."

When word reached DR. JOHN T. SPRAGUE, '31, that Mrs. Sprague (EMILY LIDDELL, '30), would soon present him with a new offspring at her home in Massillon, the young doctor dashed to the Athens airport, secured a plane and headed north. Even with the latest in modern transportation methods, however, he arrived too late to welcome his 7½ pound son, Jack. On the way back from Massillon the next day, "Doc" flew through a big cloud and came out completely lost. He flew in a straight line (the first rule for getting "unlost") and finally identified a point near Zanesville. From there to Athens his course was well known.

The first Athens County newspaper was the ATHENS MIRROR AND LITERARY REGISTER. It was started in 1825 under the editorship of ARCHIBALD G. BROWN, 1822, grandfather of MABEL K. BROWN, '89, retired Ohio University faculty member. It was printed in the ancient brick building which was torn down a score or more of years ago when the Athens post office building was erected. The MIRROR contained sixteen pages, 9 x 5 inches, and was printed on a wooden press with a stone bed. JOHN BROUGH, then a student attending Ohio University and later the Civil War Governor of Ohio, was employed in the Mirror office. In 1830, the mirror was succeeded by the Western Spectator and that later by the Hocking Valley Gazette. The Gazette was the immediate predecessor of the Athens Messenger.

JOHN ARTHUR LOGAN, '18x, Washington, D. C., executive vice-president of the National Association of Food Chains, is credited with having much to do with the formulation of a plan for farm-chain cooperation to move national crop surpluses. Business Week, a leading professional magazine, refers very complimentarily to Mr. Logan's work.

Continuing with a report of the whereabouts of Ohio University journalism graduates, a report started two months ago, we have JOAN BOLLES, '37, as a reporter for the Times in Reading, Pa.; CARROLL J. KITTS, '29, in a responsible position with the Washington Post in the Nation's Capital; MELLICENT HAZZARD, '36, doing general reporting for the Reporter in Washington, Pa.; GEORGE HILLPERN, '36, previously with the Post Standard, Syracuse, N. Y., and the Waterbury, Conn. Republican, now with the Charleston, W. Va., Gazette; DOROTHY L. DURYEA, '36, a district classified advertising representative at Hempstead, L. I., for the New York Herald-Tribune; THOMAS E. BYRNE, '31, state editor of the Elmira, N. Y., Star-Gazette; JOHN ALDEN, '27, advertising manager of the Republican-Press, Salamanca, N. Y.; LARRY HAUCK, '33, doing specialized reporting for the Detroit Free Press; MARGARET ALCOCK, '35, and PAULINE HOSSELL, '34, as society reporter and church reporter, respectively, for the Youngstown Vindicator; and EUGENE STARK, '34, in the advertising department of the Xenia Evening Gazette.

Forestry Service, Tucson, Ariz., was the official representative of his alma mater at the inauguration of Alfred Atkinson as President of the University of Arizona on April 12. On May 20 and 21, O. P. CLUTTS, '13, associate professor of education at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, will represent Ohio University at the 100th Anniversary of Greensboro College.

What constitutes a justifiable grouch? Well, we believe this does. In the February Alumnus it was announced that ROBERT L. BOULWARE and MARY FRANCES REEVES were married on Jan. 15, 1937. Friend Bob, whose middle initial is "H", writes to inform the editor that the marriage was an event of the current year and not last year, and further that it was he, and not his father, Robert L. Boulware, whom Mary Frances married. Says he, "I don't mind the error myself, but my mother has a jealous nature."

DR. EARL B. SOUTH, '21, whose second book, "A Student Dictionary of Terms in Testing," has been accepted for publication by the Psychological Corporation, addressed the psychometrics section of the American Psychological Association on "Significant Trends in Published Articles in the Field of Measurement," at the association's annual meeting in New York City on April 1.
